

An aerial photograph of a wetland landscape. A large, dark, irregularly shaped body of water occupies the lower half of the frame. Surrounding this water are various types of vegetation, including dense green marsh grasses and clusters of bright yellow flowers, likely wildflowers or reeds. The overall scene is a natural, undisturbed wetland environment.

Myths for a Wetlands Imaginary